COVERT CLOTH BOX BACK, LONDON

TOP

* Bicknell * Brothers. *

COATS

The fabric in these Top Coats is a very fine quality of Covert Cloth, a beautiful olive brown mixture. They are cut box back and the correct length for an up-to-date garment for young and middle-aged men. They are trimmed beautifully with satin and serge, and made by journeymen tailors. These garments have every appearance of custom work at about one-half the price.

THERE ARE FUNNY THINGS

In the merchant tailoring business. It makes a reputable tailor laugh to hear some competitor say he makes a good suit of clothes for $20. Why bless you, dear reader, the making and trimming alone of a good suit of clothes cost more than $20. There is the cost of the cloth and the cutter to pay, and the rent to pay. Then add on a decent profit. Now what kind of workmanship do you think there is in a $20 suit? I don't make the $20 kind. Am very busy making the good kind.

The Phillips A. U. V. Society had the Park Street Stables' brake at the game yesterday.

The Andover Bargain Store advertisement contains something of interest each week and should be carefully read.

Prof. Forbes of Phillips Academy gave a lecture on "Ancient Manuscript" before the Forum last Friday evening.

The football season at Phillips has closed with the exception of the Street Championship games, which begin tomorrow afternoon.

Season tickets for the Abbot Academy Piano Recitals will be on sale at the Andover Book Store after Monday, November 18.

The remains of the late Warren A. Durant of Lawrence were buried in Christ Church Cemetery, Monday afternoon. He was eighty-two years old.

W. H. Osborn, assistant instructor in Chemistry and Physics at the Academy last year, is now taking a special course in Mathematics at Harvard.

Miss Mary Alice Abbott, teacher at the Pynchard School has been quite ill, and Miss Florence Locke has been performing her duties.

P. J. Hannon has been adorning his place on Florence Street with some new trees from his farm, where he has a large number of different kinds suitable for setting out.

Arthur Bliss and Peter D. Smith have been chosen members of the "Committee of Fifteen" on the 25th anniversary celebration, to fill the vacancies occasioned by the resignation of Rev. F. W. Greene and George Gould.

Dr. G. Howard Jones, of Boston, says that Ayer's Hygienic Coffee will fill a long felt want to persons who cannot use coffee on account of the effect it produces on the liver. Principal grocers sell it.

Rev. Frederick D. Greene will give an address on "Armenia" in the Parish house of Christ Church on Thursday afternoon next at 3 o'clock. All persons interested are cordially invited to come and become more so.

Mr. Kingman wishes to state, for the benefit of his pupils and friends, that he is in Andover from Friday at 2 P. M. to Saturday at 3 P. M. every week and any word left at O. P. Chase's store, Andover Square, will receive prompt attention.

Those who were at the Pynchard School building last Wednesday evening and who desired to join a class in English Grammar and Spelling, are notified that a class in these subjects will be held on Thursday evening at 8.15.

Several members of St. Matthews Lodge of Masons went to Reading Wednesday evening to attend the Masonic meeting there. It was the occasion of the Deputy's visitation there and also of conferring the third degree on several candidates.

Dick Haskell, a carpenter employed by Richardson & Pitman, was married last evening to Miss Grace E. Thayer, youngest daughter of Samuel Thayer of the Holt District. They are both well known in that neighborhood and have the best wishes of their many friends.

Aside from the pleasure afforded by the social evenings at the November Club house, it looks as if a tidy sum would be left to divide among the organized charity and the A. V. I. S. An attractive programme for the second evening is announced elsewhere.

District Deputy Edward Howarth of Lincoln Lodge, A. O. U. W., attended the "Ladies' Night" of Spicket Falls Lodge at Methuen Tuesday evening. He was accompanied by the following members of Lincoln Lodge: Simon Wrigley, James Grosvenor, Daniel Milton, George C. Foster, George Holt and William Auty.

Mrs. Edith A. Brown who has been a teacher in Salt Lake City will be present at the next meeting of the Ladies' Union Home Missionary Society, Tuesday, Nov. 19. The meeting will be held in the South Church lecture room, at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Brown will speak of her work among the Mormons.

Samuel T. Chard of Lawrence, who committed suicide by shooting in his fish market Monday afternoon, was very well known in Andover. For many years he was connected with the Lawrence Fire department and had visited many of the gatherings of the Company here, at which he was very popular.

The Women's Relief Corps had a large attendance at its meeting Tuesday evening, when the inspecting officer, Mrs. Clara J. Sylvester, of Lawrence, was present and saw the work exemplified. The Corps officers did their work with credit and were complimented by Mrs. Sylvester. A collation and social time followed.

Mrs. L. P. Morse of Elm Street is looking after the interests of the new order of Pilgrim Fathers in this town and she will be pleased to furnish anyone, who desires, with information, blanks, etc. It is expected that the lodge will be ready for organization about Dec. 15.

The invitations are out for the marriage of Joseph A. Denison, formerly of this town, and Mary Louise, daughter of Timothy Cookley of Boston. It will take place Monday morning, Nov. 25, at nine o'clock, at St. Columbkille's Church, Brighton. There will be a reception from ten to three, at 52 Parsons Street.

Mrs. Flagg, who resides on the Hill and who is over 90 years of age, had a most unfortunate accident happen to her last Saturday. She was sitting on the side of the bed and in attempting to raise her feet broke her thigh bone. Her age and condition rendered it impossible to set the injured member and she now has to be kept under the influence of opiates.

The remains of Mrs. Orlando S. Morse, of Norway, Maine, were brought here for burial in the South Cemetery, yesterday. Mrs. Morse was well known to many of our older citizens, being the widow of the late Orlando Morse of Andover. The latter was in the mason business here, being junior member of the firm of Gleason & Morse. Mrs. Morse was also a half sister of Robert Bell of Maple Avenue.

Free Church Y. P. S. C. E. Elects New Officers.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Free Church held its semi-annual business meeting and a very pleasant social in the vestry last Friday evening. The following officers and committees were elected for the next six months:

The demand for Ayer's Hair Vigor in such widely separated regions as South America, Spain, Australia, and India has kept pace with the home consumption, which goes to show that these people know a good thing when they try it.

At the meeting of Walter L. Raymond Camp, Sons of Veterans, next Wednesday night, the inspecting officer will be present and a full attendance is desired.

Friends of Rev. and Mrs. Frederick D. Green will be glad to hear that the household goods started for their journey across the Atlantic just before the sailing of the Turkish ports, where they have been held so long. What a tale these bits of Andover domestics could tell of their long travels in those funny green boxes made in Maine on a special order for their Eastern trip.

The Phillips Academy second eleven defeated the Charlestown High team last Saturday afternoon, 23 to 0, in a drizzling rain and a slippery field. The Andover team was much heavier and pushed their light opponents around quite easily. Charlestown, however, put up a sticky game and did some pretty tackling. It was the first time that Charlestown had been defeated this season.

The Evening School.

The sessions of the evening school will begin next week Tuesday in the Pynchard School building, and classes will be held as follows:

Tuesday, 7.15, Arithmetic, 1, Miss Hervey.

FREDERICK PALMER,

For the Committee.

Public School Notes.

Miss Sara E. Wilcox, who is well known to many Andover people, is expected to talk to the teachers on language sometime this month.

It has been found necessary to add some dozen new seats to Miss Rose's room in the John Dove School.

Miss Winifred Munroe, teacher at the Scotland District School, has tendered her resignation owing to ill health. She now expects to go to Nashville, Tenn., to teach in a mission school there.

Supr. Johnson goes to Hartford, Conn., tomorrow to attend the meeting of the County Teachers' Association, and he will give an address on "A Study of Feeble-minded and Peculiar Children."

On the shelves of the new bookcase in the Superintendent's office, a text book library is being gathered for reference for the teachers.

The superintendent has generously provided for the use of the teachers a number of educational papers, which are kept on a table in his office.

Councilman Alexander H. Rogers.

It will, without much doubt, be Councilman Alexander H. Rogers in ward five Lawrence, the coming year. At the republican caucus in that ward last night, with five candidates in the field, Mr. Rogers led all in the number of votes. Councilman Patch was re-nominated but received less votes than Mr. Rogers by 31 and Mr. Rushforth who was next to Mr. Rogers had 8 less. Fred A. Gray, who was up for re-nomination, was turned down. The ward is a republican stronghold.

Mr. Rogers is the well known son of Barnett Rogers and his many Andover friends will congratulate him on his success on his entrance into political life.

Mechanics Fair Shoes.

Ladies who visit Boston this month will have an opportunity of purchasing of a leading down-town merchant Goodyear welt shoes made at Mechanics fair. In the basement of the exhibition a manufacturer has nearly a dozen machines lasting, sewing, stitching and levelling Goodyear welts. Goodyear welt shoes are made in exact duplication of hand sewed. They are made for gentlemen, ladies and children.

No. 5

One Sunday Noon.

A bird's-eye view of the settlers of Cochichewick gathered on a bright Sunday, in May 1661, needs some touches of color from the pen of a writer like Alice M. Earle to hold the attention to the dry list of characters I wish to introduce to you as the fellow townsmen who helped make Andover History with our Nicholas, those first tedious twenty years. My space, however, is as limited as the old log meeting house which had just disgorged a most surprising company of youths and infants.

Bradstreet, Dane and Andrew Foster are the white heads who have gathered on the green hill-side to pass opinions on the new meeting house about to be raised, for Henry Ingalls has given up his house lot in exchange for seventy acres farther South; the twins, John and Steven, were baptized this morning and Mary Osgood will move into the new house as soon as she is able. Here are our men of middle age, Nicholas Holt, Andrew Allen, Serg. John Stevens, Richard Barker, John Frye and Robert Barnard clustered about the Parson, as Mrs. Bradstreet and her daughters; with many cordial greetings, withdraw to the luncheon entertainment usually spread at the Bradstreets' for visitors, on the Lord's Day.

Some of the Haverhill people are over with the regular comers, John Marston and John Remington's small families, while Robert Ames and the other Rowley friends are going home with Job Tyler today. For Job is about to fit to Roxbury and Richard Sutton, who is going to Reading, is arguing with Henry Jaques, who favors old Newbury, on the relative merits of business ventures between the two ports of Newbury and Salem. These discontents keep aloof from the little circle of new-comers, Daniel Poor, Mark Graves, William and Thomas Chandler, the two Abbott cousins and the Farnum brothers, whose attention is equally divided between the questions under discussion with the elders and the fascination that is drawing all eyes to the group of young mothers with six babes in their arms, housed in through all the long, hard winter, and now rejoicing with the birds in the odor of young apple blossoms and the scent of the marvelous woods in bloom.

The eyes of the matrons in charge of a prim little array of "five to ten's," follow the bride, Eunice Frye, as she tenderly leads to her pillion the fragile sister of the Frye lads, who are strangely quiet to-day for they were awed by the brilliant beauty of the transparent face as their dying sister stood with Mary Russell in all her bloom to join the Lord's people.

The Hols have been neighbors indeed, during this first hard winter, to young Russell and a step-mother helps Hannah Holt lift the heavy end of her burdens and gives time for many outings with brother Nicholas across the hills to Robert's place. The brown eyes and sweet voice of Mary Marshall, reproduced in the small Mary who reaches out after the big playmate she has captivated, finish their work in just eighteen years when the shy fellow, at 32, leaves the ranks of the "despised" bachelors for the prize well worth waiting for.

The young grandmothers have walked over to the burying ground, where among the corn-hills lie Goodwife Holt and Nathan Parker's Susan beside John Osgood with seven short mounds under one of which lies Hannah Abbott's Joseph, the first grave in the yard.

Up the slope stroll the young couples whose banns will shortly be published, Stephen Osgood and Elizabeth Dane, John Stevens and Hanna Barnard, young Andrew Foster and Mary Rusee, A recent arrival, Thomas Rowell, who has married the widow of Christopher Osgood of Ipswich and brought her over to live near her daughter, Mrs. John Lovejoy, is being introduced to William Ballard, and John Aslebee, all enthusiastic over the water privileges of the new town. Thomas Rowell, in his last year of "probation," is going on with his schemes to develop the water power of the Lower Shawshin, just as Ballard, of Lynn, has already started to do up stream. John Aslebee says there is money in transit down the Merrimack below Bradford ferry that ought to be in Andover pockets. And young John stands at his father's elbow with gaping mouth, along with his comrade, Sam Frye, and the seed is sown that thirty years after springs up in Christopher Osgood's and Sam Frye's ventures in our Frye Village and John Aslebee's sloop built by Andover men from Andover pine. I hope the orator of next year will be able to give us its name.

Five men, just half the usual guard, Faulkner, Russell, Lovejoy, John Osgood and Thomas Johnson, fully armed and armored, keep one eye on the Indian Roger and his company, who find four acres too cramped and are about to join Passaconaway in his retreat up river and have come to enjoy the last psalm and stand patiently through the long prayer for the sake of a good feast which the Parker families have chosen to set before them. A most dignified affair, recalled years after, when the two sons who had been playmates of Roger's young braves, had fallen victims to the code that demanded "life for life." The other eye of the guard was devoted to the irrepressible boys, for was not the town's ammunition stored under the rafters of the old meeting house with the reserved seed corn? Pipes and fire were as convenient as the nimble fingers of the Indian thief.

Richard Blake, the thieving man, had his hands full just then, for the Bradstreet pigs were out and the innumerable dogs, who had served as foot warmers the hard winter through and who were now sheepishly limping about on three legs to keep them from digging alewives in the new cornhills, had baited the grunting squad into the burying ground. While he is driving them home, the children of ten to fifteen, released from the knobby and foxtail ends of the terrible wand, led by Prudence Blake and young Tyler, stir up strife between peppery John Chandler and Martha Allen, the sharpest tongue of all the girls. Joseph Abbott, already beginning his second short decade, backs up Martha whose pluck he admires, while soft-hearted sister Hanna vanquishes the redoubtable John with one roll of her blue eyes; and seven year old Sarah Marshall, with the tact of a young society woman, begins the tale of the famous Farrington-Ingalls horse trial in which she lately figured as a prominent witness. The young guest of the Russell-Holt neighborhood easily "holds the fort" till the toot of the horn calls them all back to propriety and close packing. C. H. A.

The Atlantic Monthly.

"The Parting of the Ways," in the November Atlantic, is a study of the question of physical culture for women. It takes the form of a bright dialogue, and contains much which is interesting and suggestive.

"The Future of Naval Warfare" is a discussion of the future usefulness of the world's perfected navies. The author's solution of the problem is original and interesting. There are also many other interesting things for all readers.

A Dog In a Crowd.

It is really cruel to take a dog, and particularly a small one, into a crowd. No one possessing any imagination would ever do it. Can you fancy what the feelings of a little animal must be when it finds itself in a perfect forest of legs, each leg provided with a foot shod in hard leather and liable to come down on one of its poor little paws? Its small brain must be in a ferment of apprehension all the time, and if it could command any language it would probably be of a powerful kind.—Philadelphia Ledger.

How They Eat.

The following is the daily ration of the animals at the Jardin des Plantes in Paris: Ten pounds of flesh for each lion, tiger and bear; seven pounds for the panther, three pounds to six pounds for the hyena, one pound for the wild cat, and two pounds for the eagle.

There is a "rocking stone" in Sullivan county, N. Y., which is estimated to weigh 40 tons, and which is so evenly balanced that the strength of one finger is sufficient to set it in motion.

The British Medical Journal states that the strain of railway racing must tell upon the drivers, and either they must work shorter hours or that greater risk must be run.

In the Ural mountains the peasantry believe that if a wolf sees a man before the man sees the wolf, the man will be struck dumb and remain so as long as the wolf lives.

For more than a hundred years the Shakers have been studying the remedial properties of plants. They have made many discoveries, but their greatest achievement was made last year. It is a cordial that contains already digested food and is a digestor of food. It is effective in removing distress after eating, and creates an appetite for more food so that eating becomes a pleasure. Pale, thin people become plump and healthy under its use. It arrests the wasting of consumption.

There never has been such a step forward in the cure of indigestion as this Shaker Cordial. Your druggist will be glad to give you a little book descriptive of the product.

Give the babies LAXOL, which is Castor Oil made as palatable as Honey.

It will keep your chickens strong and healthy; will make young pullets lay early; Worth its weight in gold for moulted hens; Prevents all diseases. It is a Powerful Food Digestive. Therefore, no matter what kind of food you use, mix with it daily Sheridan's Powder. Observe, your profit this fall and winter will be lost when the price for eggs is very high. It assures perfect animation of the food elements needed to produce eggs. In quantity costs less than a tenth of a cent a day. Sold by druggists, grocers, feed dealers, or by mail. One pack 25 cts; Five $1. Large two-lb. can $1.50; Six $8. Exp. paid. Sample Best Quality Paper free. L. & JOHNSON & CO., Box 2115, Boston, Mass.

FAMOUS POLITICAL PHRASE.

Used in Different Forms by Lincoln, Theodore Parker and Webster.

In a letter headed "Not Lincoln's Own Words," a correspondent points out that the words "government of the people, by the people, for the people," in the famous Gettysburg address were not original with Lincoln. He attempts to further show that they were original with Henry Wilson, and were quoted by Lincoln from a letter written in 1860 by Wilson to certain persons in Boston.

In a speech delivered at the New England antislavery convention, Boston, May 29, 1850, by Theodore Parker, may be found the expression "a government of all the people, by all the people, for all the people," the exact language, with the exception of one word, of that ascribed to Wilson and employed by Lincoln. But still further back had the same idea been expressed in substantially the same way by Daniel Webster in one of his most splendid oratorical efforts, whose every phrase was familiar to all patriotic Americans long before Parker uttered his speech or Wilson wrote his letter. In his second speech on Foot's resolution, Jan. 26, 1830, Webster used these words, "The people's government, made for the people, made by the people and answerable to the people."

The phrase discussed belongs no more to Wilson than to Lincoln. The words can no more be said to have been "quoted" by Lincoln from Wilson than from Parker or Webster. Lincoln was familiar with the writings and speeches of Parker. He had probably never seen this particular letter of Wilson's. That his language should be exactly the same as that of the latter was a coincidence, but probably nothing more. The phrase was merely the expression, in the simplest, most direct language, of the glorious yet popular and familiar idea of the constitution and object of our form of government. The expression cannot be ascribed to any one man. Lincoln does not give the statement as a positive declaration—as a new coined phrase intended to add to his laurels as a public speaker, but uses the words as descriptive of our government in uttering the resolve that it "shall not perish from the earth."

That some words of the speech had been said before does not detract from the beauty or grandeur of Lincoln's address as a whole. His speech, which has been declared to be the greatest in the records of oratory of our own or any other country, was so not because it was the labored and polished effort of a practiced orator, but because of the greatness of the man, as a man, who uttered it.—Washington Star.

A Valuable Prescription.

Editor Morrison of Worthington, Ind., "Sun" writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for Constipation and Sick Headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Stehle, 2625 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a backache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. My Husband Suffered

For years with catarrh, rheumatism and chronic diarrhoea contracted in the war.

In the fall he had the grip and came near death's door. He could not eat or sleep and was much emaciated. One bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla did him so much good that he kept on taking it. He now has a good appetite and has gained in flesh. I think it saved his life. ANANDA CARTER, Mt. Jackson, Ind.

Some Townsman Features.

Aside from the series of "Historical Andover" that attracts increased interest each succeeding week, we have planned to make the TOWNSMAN possess each week something of peculiar interest to every man, woman and child in Andover. To this end we have arranged for three new departments on "Fruit and Flowers," "Farm and Garden," and "Women and Children." These will be filled with interesting matter from the best writers and in addition will be supplemented from time to time, with original articles by local writers. The TOWNSMAN wants to be a HOME paper, that no citizen of Andover can afford to be without, and each new year brings nearer the realization of its wish.

Lawrenceville vs. Exeter.

The Lawrenceville game is a pleasure and a disappointment. We do not mean the particular game that took place yesterday, but the contest between the great New Jersey School and the great Massachusetts School, as an event. It is a pleasure because of the bringing together of two such splendid sets of genuine boys. Each succeeding game emphasizes the particular and pleasing phase of these contests, that it is not a contest between hired gladiators or "induced special students," but rather a contest between school boys from two of our foremost boys' schools; and this is good. But it is a disappointment in the fact that though the boys come together as boys, they do not seem to meet as natural rivals, in the same way that Andover and Exeter used to meet. And from the two or three years observation that we have had we must decide that they never can. There were some in town who had thought they were tired of the semi-annual noise and burrah of an "Exeter game" but they long ago began to wish for it again and being among that number we cannot help urging the present as the time for the olive branches. We say branches, for there would better be two, the one borne out from old Phillips at Exeter, and the other from her sister at Andover and both meeting on the border line, blended together in a new union like that which so long enthused and aroused the best boys of New England's student life. It would do more for "school spirit" in both academies than a hundred contests with another school, and more for school discipline than a dozen "weeding outs." The Phillips' never meant to have their two academies making faces at each other and it is time they stopped.

Editorial Cinders.

The completion of the card catalogue at the Memorial Library, adds to the equipment more than almost anything else that could be furnished to the library. But following the card catalogue there must come a new printed catalogue if the very best use of the library is to be realized. Here is an excellent opportunity for some other public spirited citizen to match the generosity of the giver of the card catalogue.

The "Committee of Fifteen" on the 250th anniversary celebration, are now at work in earnest, and our citizens may be assured of a celebration worthy of the town and its people. An outline of the general program will be ready for announcement shortly, and progress is reported all along the line.

"The Andover Club," is the name of a new organization that has the opportunity to do much for Andover, not only socially, but along every line in which the town needs development. Composed of many of the prominent citizens and well located as it is, we look to see the Andover Club an important factor in the community. May it have long life and do the work that evidently awaits it.

THE ANDOVER CLUB.

The Name of the New Social Organization in Musgrove Building.

The Andover Club is the name selected by the new local organization, which has just been formed, and which will occupy the very convenient set of rooms on the second floor of Musgrove Building. The club starts with the large membership of about 70. The number is limited to one hundred.

The purpose for which the club is formed is not only social, but for literary and intellectual improvement as well.

The following list of officers has been selected: President, George Ripley; vice-president, Geo. H. Poor; treasurer, Frank E. Gleason; clerk, C. H. Frye; directors, Geo. Harris, Geo. Torr, J. Newton Cole, A. S. Manning, Frank S. Mills; entertainment committee, A. L. Ripley, F. A. Goodhue, John N. Cole, T. F. Pratt.

Memorial Hall Library.

The trustees at their annual meeting on Tuesday evening passed the following RESOLUTIONS.

WHEREAS: Mrs. John Byers of Andover has, since our last meeting, presented to the Library a card catalogue, prepared under her direction and at her expense, complete to date, together with suitable cases to hold the same;

Resolved: That the cordial thanks of the Board be tendered Mrs. Byers for her generous kindness in providing this valuable addition to the facilities of the Library.

Resolved: That the Secretary be requested to send a copy of these Resolutions to Mrs. Byers and also furnish them to the Andover TOWNSMAN for publication.

The larger public will of course heartily concur in the above vote of thanks to Mrs. Byers for this additional help to the patrons of the Library. Many have already seen and begun to use the two cases standing on either side of the delivery desk, with their thousands of neatly written cards. The case on the right hand contains the full alphabetical list of books, by authors, and also a separate list of works of fiction. The left hand case contains two other catalogues—the first that of titles of books, the other of subjects, carefully classified under the following heads:

Philosophy.	Literature.
Religion.	General History.
Sociology.	Travels.
Philology.	Biography (Individual).
Science.	Biography (Collective).
Useful Arts.	History (Ancient; Modern).
Fine Arts.	History (of different countries).

It should be specially remembered that while these catalogues have been prepared with reference to the "decimal system" of numbering, the old numbers are for the present still followed, and these are found at the bottom of the card. Printed lists of accessions made from time to time (duplicates of the TOWNSMAN "Bulletin"), mounted on card-board, will be found on the cases and on the table. Copies of these are also deposited at the district stations.

The immediate adoption of the new system of numbering would of course render worthless all the printed catalogues and annual supplements in the houses of the people, and entail a great inconvenience to the many who do not visit the library in person. The preparation and publication of a new printed catalogue would be a matter of large expense, for which there are no funds. Who knows but the revival of public spirit in the anniversary year of the town may suggest to some citizen of generous mind to carry out the work so finely begun by Mrs. Byers?

A plan is under consideration and soon to be executed of making one of the side rooms a reference library, where may be placed also such works of historical interest as may be purchased in connection with the bequest of the late John Cornell.

The Abbot Academy Piano Recital.

The first recital in the Abbot Academy course will be given on Dec. 5 by Mr. Anthony Stankowitch of New York and Miss Bertha Cushing of Boston. Mr. Stankowitch plays with great finish and poetic meaning, and possesses not only true musicianship and a wonderful memory, but a marvellous technique. In our next issue we shall give his programme.

Miss Bertha Cushing will be at once remembered as the delightful contralto who sang at Miss Beach's concert in the November Club House last May. We hope all her ardent admirers on that occasion, and many new ones, will be present to hear her on Dec. 5, for we are certain the concert will be very charming.

100 Times Faster Than Hand Work.

Stitching on the sole of a Goodyear welt in a minute's time is one of the interesting operations to be seen in the basement of the exhibition building at Mechanics' Fair, Boston. Each stitch is formed and drawn into place just as the hand-workman does it, only a hundred times faster. It is claimed that Goodyear welt shoes are better than hand-sewed. No tacks or nails are used in attaching the soles, and the stitching is more uniform and stronger.

ANDOVER LOSES

The Score 12 to 10, but Phillips Put Up a Great Game.

The blue and white succumbed to the red and black from Lawrenceville yesterday, but not until after one of the hardest and most stubbornly fought contests ever seen on Phillips campus. The score was 12 to 10, Barker missing his second goal, which would have tied the score. Andover's playing was a revelation to its friends, who hardly expected the blue to do any more than score, while it was generally thought that Lawrenceville's score would run up into the twenties. It was one of the many foot-ball surprises of the year.

The unfortunate occurrence by which Andover lost her regular quarter-back in the first half of the game, in our opinion, undoubtedly cost Andover the game. Wentworth, in the heat of the fray, used his hands too freely on Captain Dibble of Lawrenceville, right in the sight of the umpire, who promptly disqualified him. Quimby, who took his place, was not familiar with the signals and made fumble after fumble, by means of which Lawrenceville got the ball to her 10 yard line and soon scored her second touchdown. By the slow and poor passing, Barker was prevented from kicking down the field twice just before this touchdown. Had he been able to do so, it is fair to assume that the goal would never have been reached.

There is some excuse for Quimby's poor work, for he has not had the proper practice that a first substitute should have, to make him familiar with the centre and the signals.

As a whole it was a good clean game of foot-ball, although fiercely fought and uncertain to the end. One of the great surprises of the day was the way in which Andover's light line held their big opponents and broke through and blocked several of the fullback's kicks. One of these blocked kicks enabled Andover to secure her second touchdown.

Both teams played a kicking game, Barker and Goodwin upholding their end very well.

The weakest point in Andover's line was at left tackle and Lawrenceville made many of her gains there, although Mull played well against his heavy opponent. Greenway put a great game at right tackle and clearly outplayed the giant Cadwalader. The centre men surprised everybody and field like a stone wall. Chadwell was the star in Andover's line. He tackled like a fiend and the way in which he went down the field was worthy of the great Hinkley. Young also followed the ball well and did better work than he has shown before. Goodwin was the bright star behind the line and his phenomenal run of 60 yards with good interference, through the whole New Jersey team will be heralded for years in foot-ball circles. He showed wonderful grit in playing after he had been hurt several times, but he had to succumb just before the close of the second half. Butterfield also showed by his playing that Capt. Young made no mistake in selecting him for the other half. His work on the defensive was especially strong. Barker's punting, tackling and rushing were strong and he deserved all the confidence placed in him.

Andover had the kick-off and after a short time Dibble scored for Lawrenceville and big Cadwalader kicked an easy goal. Not long after this Lawrenceville scored again on a long run around the end, but it was not allowed on account of offside play. After this Andover took new life and played winning football. Every man did his best and the next hour saw some great foot-ball. It was not long after this that Goodwin made his great run for a touchdown and Barker tied the score by kicking a goal.

The second half saw a desperate fight for the ascendancy, but Andover was badly handicapped at quarter back and two or three costly fumbles put the ball on Andover's 10 yard line, from which point Dibble scored a touchdown and Cadwalader another goal. Andover went into the battle again as hard as ever and by blocking Kafer's kick secured the ball on the 5-yard line and Goodwin made a touchdown in the corner. It was punted out and caught by Butterfield, Barker tried for a goal, but missed it by about two feet. This left the score 12 to 10 in favor of Lawrenceville. Darkness soon set in and the ball went back and forth without much advantage to either side.

About 2000 saw the game, some fifty of the Harvard-Andover Club occupying seats and cheering lustily for Andover. Lawrenceville had a dozen supporters who cheered for all they were worth. Lewis, once Harvard's great centre, refereed the game and R. Hickok of Yale umpired.

Dangerous Use of a Flobert Rifle.

Boys who are allowed to use Flobert rifles should be old enough to know their danger and how to properly use them without imperiling anyone. That there are those who do not know this, or don't care to, has been shown by several instances brought to our attention.

One day last week, L. H. Eames, our well known butcher, while driving down Bartlett Street passed a boy carrying one of these rifles. The youth turned and fired in the direction of the butcher cart. Mr. Eames supposed it contained only a dart, but on the contrary it was a bullet, and went sailing right through the back of his cart. It fortunately did no particular damage, but it might have and we call this attention to the danger of allowing boys to exercise due care, or trouble may follow.

A BIG CROWD

Attends the Second Night of the Grange Fair. The Result.

The Grangers were a happy looking lot last Friday evening, for the crowd at their fair was much larger than on the first evening and money flowed steadily in at all the tables. Members of out-of-town Granges also helped to swell the attendance and the exchequer.

During the evening at short intervals, the Phillips Glee Club rendered some of their favorite glees, which greatly pleased the audience, and several epigrams were given. The Club is fully up to the average, and bids fair to have a successful season. The parts are all well balanced, and they should make a hit in all their coming concerts. H. W. Brown is leader and H. W. Mitchell, manager.

At 10 o'clock all the guessing contests were closed, and the committee, consisting of B. F. Smith, N. H. Perkins and Joshua H. Chandler, proceeded to pick out the winners.

While this was going on, Joseph T. Lovejoy assumed the role of auctioneer and began to dispose of left-over articles. This was kept up until after midnight, until everything was sold.

Mr. Smith from time to time announced the successful guessers, their guesses, and the prizes. They were as follows:

N. R. Bailey guessed the correct number, 41, and received the gold ring in the chestnut.

The black derby hat will be worn by J. Warren Moor, whose guess of the kernels on the ear of corn was 302, just nine less than the correct number.

The height of the pole, over which there was so much discussion, was 17 ft., 4 1/2 in., and F. L. Hardy was the lucky guesser of those figures and received the carving knife and fork.

The watch stopped at 7.20, and J. H. Campion's guess of 7.16 was the nearest, and he was presented with the rug.

Four hundred and ten was the number of seeds in the squash, and 400, the guess of N. H. Perkins, brought him the lamp. The pickle jar fell into the hands of Benjamin Brown, who guessed the circumference of the circle to be 6 ft., 2 in. The correct length was 6 ft., 3 3/4 in.

The ball of twine was a stinker, and the guesses were all wide of the mark. That of Walter Rhodes, 1393 yards, was the nearest to the correct amount, 1274, and he is a pair of shoes in.

There were just 575 beans in the bottle and 583 was the nearest guess, which belonged to Wesley Hardy. The prize was a pair of slippers.

The fine large fancy frosted cake became the property of B. Frank Smith, who named its exact weight, 13 1/4 lbs.

E. W. Burt had his eye on the vase, and he got them by making a guess of 1123. There were 1126 in the bottle.

B. B. Tuttle and George Bennett were tied on the length of the crooked stick, but on the draw, Mr. Tuttle was the lucky man and received the berry spoon. The measurement was 5 ft., 6 3/4 in.

There was another tie on the weight of the squash, 11 lbs., 15 3/4 oz. George S. Averill and George Flint were the men who made the nearest guesses, both 13 pounds. The prize was a trolling spoon.

Chester Wiley won a pair of vases by guessing nearest to the number of kernels on an ear of pop-corn. His guess was 485, and the right number was 448.

F. W. Haskell won the meerschaum pipe for the best shooting.

A trio of fine Brahmas hens from Henry Boynton's, which were on exhibition, were disposed of for $4.35. Mr. Boynton makes a specialty of this breed, and anyone passing his farm cannot help but admire them. B. Frank Smith also had a trio of handsome Leghorns which brought a good price.

The proceeds of the fair, as we have before stated, will go for the new Grange building, now rapidly nearing its completion. Just what the profits will amount to has not yet been exactly determined, but they will be in the vicinity of $300. The whole affair was well managed, and may be set down as a great success and a credit to the Grange.

Annual Meeting of Ladies' Charitable Society.

The Ladies' Charitable Society of the South Church held its annual meeting and social on Wednesday afternoon and evening in the vestry, and a large number enjoyed the gathering. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. George Ripley; vice-presidents, Mrs. Benjamin Brown, Mrs. Jonas Spaulding; secretary and treasurer, Miss Alice Rogers.

Supper was served at 7 o'clock, about 125 partaking, and an hour later Rev. F. D. Greene gave a stereopticon talk on "Six Weeks in Armenia." His familiarity with the country and people made his remarks most interesting and instructive and all listened with marked attention to what he had to say. The views, with which he illustrated his talk, were also very appropriate and added to its interest.

Three Social Evenings.

The second entertainment of the series given in the November Club will be held Friday evening, Nov. 22. There will be a short musical programme, consisting mainly of vocal solos by Mr. George A. Tyler of Boston, who needs no introduction to an Andover audience, and Mrs. Clark of Boston, of whom Madame Hall writes as possessing "a truly musical nature, a lovely voice and an attractive personality." There will also be piano solos by Miss Brooks of Wellesley College. The Andover Band Orchestra will furnish the music for dancing. The third entertainment will be a dramatic evening and will occur early in December. The tickets are for sale at the Bookstore and will be sold for 75 cents for the remaining two evenings. Single tickets, 50 cents.

Lecture on Hampton Institute.

Interest in the work and welfare of the Hampton (Va.) Institute seems to be as keen as ever in Andover and the large audience which gathered in the South Church Monday evening heard, with renewed ardor, the story of what is being done for the Negroes and Indians at this now famous institution. Rev. H. B. Turner, the Chaplain of the school, this time presented the cause, which has been so ably presented to Andover audiences before by the revered Gen. Armstrong and Rev. H. B. Friswell.

Mr. Turner was aided in his very interesting talk by a number of very good stereopticon views of the cabins and temples where the pupils come, of the places where there are no schools, the Black Belt in Alabama, and Indian scenes on the plains, all showing the trials these students meet in laboring among their people.

Mr. Turner also paid a warm tribute to Gen. Armstrong, who founded the school and has done so much for the negro. A quartette from the Institute made the meeting still more interesting by their plantation melodies. A collection was taken before the meeting broke up.

Wedding.

BUCHAN-STEVENS.

Wednesday evening occurred the marriage of Charles S. Buchanan, the well-known upholsterer and expressman, and Miss Carrie Stevens also of this town. The ceremony was performed at the Free Church parsonage by Rev. F. A. Wilson. The bride was attended by Miss Nellie Angus and the groom by Mr. Fred Haigh of Lawrence. After the ceremony they were taken to the Luncheon house on Elm Street, which will be their future home, and here a very pleasant reception was held. They were the recipients of many pretty wedding gifts and the congratulations of many friends.

Gov. Greenhalge's Thanksgiving Proclamation.

It is fitting that the people of the commonwealth should remember and acknowledge the manifold mercies shown them by Almighty God during the year now drawing to a close. No signal or overwhelming calamity has visited them, and such troubles or misfortunes as have come to them they have been enabled to meet with patience and courage brightened by faith and hope.

The family and the home are the strong foundations of the commonwealth; and the light of our political structure in the word of the Lord. In the family and the home, therefore, as well as in the house of God, the voice of Massachusetts should be heard in praise and thanksgiving for the blessings and mercies of the year.

Blessed be the nation whose God is the Lord; and the people whom He hath chosen for his own inheritance.

I, therefore, by and with the advice and consent of the council, appoint the 28th day of November current as a day of solemn thanksgiving and praise to the Lord, whose loving kindness has so constantly been shown to us in the past, and whose strength and tender care will protect his people from one generation to another.

(Signed)

The Boston News Bureau.

The Boston News Bureau is organized with facilities for the receipt by telegraph and immediate delivery of all general news, and especially news affecting financial or business interests. This news is printed and distributed in from eighty to ninety bulletins daily to nearly all the leading banks, bankers, brokers, newspapers and inventors in Boston. At the close of business each day all the news is consolidated into the Summary of Bulletins, which is issued in time for the afternoon mails. The Summary circulates largely among the leading financial and business men of New England. A sample copy will be mailed to any reader of this paper who may request it, and if he is interested in the matter it contains and would like to see a few more copies they will be sent, feeling sure he will find it the most complete record of daily financial news in existence. Subscriptions are accepted at $12.00 per annum, or $1.00 per month, delivery free by carrier or mail. Address George Otis, Subscription Agent, 13 Exchange Place, Boston, Mass.

The Apron and Necktie Party, held at Bradlee Hall last Friday evening, under the auspices of the Catholic Church, was a grand success. Quite a number of Andover people were present and it netted the Church a good sum of money.

The Y. P. S. C. E. held a Progressive social in the Congregational Church vestry last Wednesday evening. There were about 35 persons present. Everybody entered heartily into the spirit of the games, and an enjoyable evening was spent by those who attended.

There will be a meeting of those interested in forming a Juvenile Templar in Y. L. P. U. Hall, next Tuesday evening, Nov. 19. Mr. Miguel Sereque, Grand Superintendent of Juvenile Templars of Boston, will be present to institute the Temple. The parents as well as the children, are cordially invited to be present.

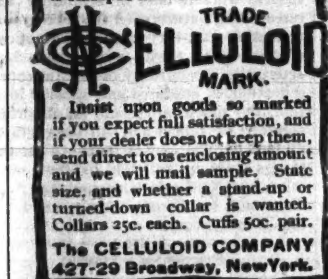

Considerable excitement was occasioned last Monday forenoon shortly after 7 o'clock, by a shocking accident that occurred at the Ballardvale Manufacturing Company. John Kelley, who was working on the roof of the stone building slipped and fell to the ground. Both wrists were broken and he received a terrible shaking up. He was conveyed, as soon as possible, to the Lawrence hospital, where he is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances. Mr. Kelley is 19 years old and lives with his parents in Tewksbury.

Pull off with starch and glass lenses. The linen collar starts the worm; Pull off at sometime if it is seen. All settled, wrinkled and forlorn.

That's what you must expect of such a collar: it's the finest of it. The stand-up collars won't stand up, and the turn-down collars will wilt down. The easy, cheap, and pleasant way out of this is to wear "CELLULOID" COLLARS AND CUFFS. These goods are made by covering linen collars or cuffs on both sides with "CELLULOID," thus making them strong and durable, and waterproof, not affected by heat or moisture. There are no other waterproof goods made this way, consequently none that can wear so well. When soiled simply wipe them off with a wet cloth. Every piece of the genuine is stamped like this:

HILL FARMS OF NEW ENGLAND.

Sheep the Most Profitable Crop—Reclaiming Poor Land in Three Years.

The hill farms of New England can be reclaimed easier with sheep, and with more profit, than in any other way. Land can be bought at a low figure and from 100 to 500 sheep put on the place, according to the size of it. The place should be inclosed with a barbed wire fence of five or six strands, the three lower ones six inches apart, strung tightly upon good posts set a rod apart, which will keep the sheep in and the dogs out. A few acres of tillable and mowing land should also be fenced in on which to raise some grain and cut some hay. A rotation of corn, oats and clover will give the best results and be found the most profitable. Two horses will do all the work necessary on such a farm, and two cows supply the family with milk, butter and cream. One man can plant what few crops are put in and take care of the sheep, with an extra man at harvest and at lambing time, when some one should be with the ewes night and day to give any needed assistance.

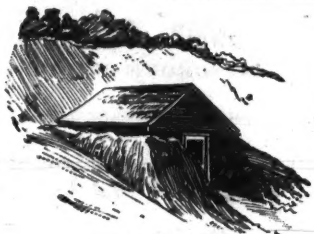

The barns or sheds should be made tight and dry, and warm if early winter lambs are to be raised. A sheep will stand much cold if the air is still, but a draft and dampness are injurious to them. Inclose the sheds on all sides and put several windows in the south side for light and warmth. Sheep like the sunshine, and enjoy sunning themselves as much as do fowls. If possible, the water should be conveyed to them in the stables, where you can have it before them all the time. On clear, fair days the sheep may be let out in the yards, but during high winds and storms they should always be kept housed.

Cover thickly as much land as possible with the manure in the winter, and plant it to corn. Plow as much more and sow it to peas and oats and cut what grass you can on the meadows. If you can spare it, plow under the oats and peas before they ripen, and sow to buckwheat; plow this under and sow to rye. If you must have the oats and peas to feed, cut them at the proper time and put in a crop of rye. Harvest the corn and put it in the silo, if you have one; if not, cure and husk it and feed the whole corn shelled, cutting and steaming the stalks for the sheep and other stock. The next spring sow a crop of oats on the corn stubble and seed heavily with clover; plow under rye when it is well up and plant corn. The winter's manure may be used partly on the land for corn and partly on a piece of old land to be planted to oats and peas as in the year previous, and the same rotation followed.

This rotation will be under full headway the third year. One piece will be in clover, which will yield two cuts, and be followed with corn. A second piece will be in oats seeded with clover, and a third piece will be in corn, to be followed by oats. All the manure should be placed on the ground for corn, unless some is wanted for the pastures or a piece of natural meadow. By this system of rotation all the tillable land can be brought up to a fair state of productivity in three years. The pastures will be improved by the sheep on them, especially when grain is fed. The expense of conducting such a farm will be very small. But little labor being required, the question of hired help is nearly or quite solved, says The New England Homestead, from which the foregoing is reproduced.

A Bank Cellar.

The New York Tribune gives an illustration showing how a bank cellar can easily be constructed for the storing of fruits and vegetables. An excavation is made into the bank the size desired, the earth being thrown out at the sides, where it can be used for still further

BANK CELLAR FOR VEGETABLES. banking the walls. The latter are of rough stones laid up in lime, sand and cement, with roofs and gables of wood. A tile drain should be laid outside the base of the wall, extending around to the front, to discharge down the slope. This cellar has no window, but may have double doors, one containing sash in its upper panel. Such a building can be very cheaply constructed, and in many locations and under many conditions may be found the most practical method of securing a frostproof storage for fruit and vegetables.

News and Notes.

The supply of apple cider and vinegar promises to be a large one.

It will do any farmer good to follow his produce to market and see where it goes, who sells it and how it is sold. A week in New York among the markets will be an education to any farmer, says the Rural New Yorker.

There is complaint of potatoes rotting in many localities.

There is quite a boom in sheep feeding, especially in Texas. American Agriculturist advises that farmers in Ohio, New York and other northern states should try winter oats only on a small scale at first, as many in the colder sections who sow winter oats on a large area will no doubt be disappointed.

A Rural New Yorker correspondent has discovered that the periwinkle, planted among potatoes, is a remedy for the potato bug.

Place honey in dry rooms. The cellar is a poor place. It will gather or draw moisture, and even mold. If kept cool and dry, it will keep for years when it is properly sealed over.

A CENTURY HENCE.

Samples of Items That May Then Appear in the Papers.

A horse, an animal said to have once been quite common in our city streets, was seen in this city yesterday. He attracted much curiosity and he was followed wherever he went by immense crowds. It is almost impossible to believe that our ancestors could have trusted their lives to so formidable a creature. It is understood that the animal escaped from the Equine Food abattoir in Brighton.

An almost unprecedented event happened in this city last evening, when Mr. and Mrs. John Brownsmith celebrated the anniversary of their marriage. The Brownsmiths were married a year ago. It is quite remarkable for a couple to live so long together in the state of wedlock, and their celebration naturally drew to their residence a dense throng of admiring friends. Congratulations were poured upon the happy pair, with wishes that they might continue together long enough to observe the second anniversary of their wedding.

The directors of the Euripides Manufacturing company have been convicted of the charge of failure to examine into the accounts of their treasurer, and have severally been sentenced to imprisonment in the state prison for a term of five years. Their counsel argued that, inasmuch as the treasurer's accounts, as shown by expert examination, were faultless during his ten years of service and that no suspicion had ever fallen upon him, the sentence should be lighter, but the court very justly remarked that the offense was the same as if the result had been severe loss to the stockholders.

It was curious to see a pedestrian in Washington street today, the first one that has been seen in the city for many years. He occasioned no small amount of vexation to the bicyclists, in whose way he was getting continually. There can be no objection to people walking in their own houses or in the country, where there is plenty of room, but it is clearly out of the question that the practice should be permitted in our crowded city streets.

The death of Solomon Strongmind, which occurred this morning, calls to mind the remarkable fact that during his long residence of five years or more in this city he has never mysteriously disappeared for even once. Undoubtedly Mr. Strongmind was somewhat eccentric in his habits generally, but in this special matter the controlling cause must have been something far more potent than mere oddity.

A man appeared on the street dressed in trousers and cutaway coat yesterday. He was promptly arrested and carried to the station house. When he next made his appearance he had donned the petticoats and other garments appropriate to his sex.—Boston Transcript.

WHAT NORDAU HAS DONE.

Professor Lombroso Has High Praise For the Author of "Degeneration."

In "Degeneration" he has the great merit of combating certain dominant influences, particularly that of mysticism, which, recrudescing in these latter days, thanks to certain errant geniuses, has led astray a vast throng of talents. In this book, too, he is ever the man of our century who has most felt the pulse of his times, and he has not only put his finger on our most open wound—on that egotism which is sterilizing our moral sense and rendering us cruel to one another—but he also has succeeded in finding its explanation in the special tendencies of the degenerate; whether it be the higher class degenerates who invent the strangest freaks to catch the public eye—as weddings in a balloon or Cardinal Lavergie's crusades—or the imitative degenerates who deem themselves original in simply copying.

Finally he has had the supreme merit of applying psychiatric research to literary criticism. He has carried this reform to its utmost applicability, seeking, with that audacity, intrepid even to insolence, which he exhibited in his "Conventional Lies," to demolish the reputations most firmly established. And thus he has been able to overthrow the work of the French and German Symbolists and Decadents, who proclaim science untrue because in 100 years of toil she has not given them the key to all the mysteries. These pages of his are among the most splendid written in this century, such as could be wrested from an artist thinker by the sight of four idlers, who insult the legion of tireless workers busy in searching and researching nature, even into her inmost recesses. And very just is his diagnosis of them—that they have for their characteristics a nebulousness of mental representation, a confused and motley ideation, too much eclecticism, an abnormal demagogical fabric and an exaggerated egotism which causes them to observe things only in relation to their own selves.—"Nordau's 'Degeneration,' Its Value and Its Errors," by Cesare Lombroso, in Century.

Sharpening a Pencil.

From childhood up man, naturally destructive, with an inherent desire to smash things, has been taught to take care of everything that is nice, tidy and ornamental. If you want to know how well the lesson has been learned, watch men sharpen pencils. Did you ever see one begin at the end that has the pretty gilt letters on it? The rudest and most careless man will turn the pencil end for end to whittle on the plain part.—New York Press.

CHILDREN'S COLUMN.MARVELOUS FLORIZEL REUTER.

A Little Boy Who Has Musical Talent and Whose General Knowledge Is Wonderful.

A pair of dimpled baby hands grasping a violin bow, a rosy cheek pressed against an instrument many times too large for him, a soul full of music—this was the picture that attracted Max Bendix to the wonderful little boy, Florizel Reuter. He needs no higher endorsement in the musical world than the fact that Max Bendix has taken him in charge and predicts for him a brilliant future.

Florizel Reuter is a boy 4½ years old, yellow haired, blue eyed, with a sunny face full of intelligence and as handsome.

FLORIZEL REUTER.

as was ever prince in fairy tale. He is physically perfect, and mentally nothing short of marvellous. He is able to recall events in history with as much ease as other children of his age would nursery stories. He is a veritable walking encyclopedia.

It is the only possession of a wonderful memory the marvel is no less.

He sings in childish treble Scotch ballads, of which he is familiar with many, and recites from "Macbeth," "Hamlet" and "Julius Caesar."

He was taken last spring to hear Yeany play. He listened with profound interest until the conclusion of the first part of the concert, when he threw himself back in his seat, and, with a look of distress, said to his mamma: "I am discouraged. I can't play like that."

He is of a most devout nature, never tasting food until a blessing is asked upon it, and never lying down without first repeating the Lord's Prayer, which he often follows by an original one, frequently in rhyme of his composing just at the time.

Florizel has only heard one opera, "Siegfried," but is familiar with the librettos of a number. He reads them with perfect ease, and can repeat the entire story from memory of any of them that he has read.

He has a novel way of entertaining himself. He will take his violin and surround himself in imagination with the old masters, for whom he will play. So real is this presence that he will beg his mamma not to sit on certain chairs, as she would sit down on Wagner, Schumann, Schubert, etc. Again he will make up his audience from the characters of some favorite opera, oftentimes taking the part of some hero or heroine himself.

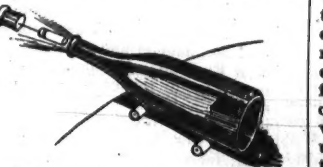

A fair idea of the precocity of the child can be gained from the fact that recently during a visit at the residence of Lyman J. Gage in the presence of a number he was questioned on points in anatomy, history, geography, zoology and the various sciences. The examination lasted a considerable time, the questions and answers were taken down by a stenographer, and it was found that the child hadn't made a single error in his replies.—Chicago Times-Herald.

A Bottle Cannon.

Take a thick empty bottle—a champagne quart bottle will do—and pour water into it until it is one-third full. In the water dissolve one of the powders—bicarbonate of soda, that druggists sell to make seltzer water.

Put the contents of the other package, tartaric acid, in a playing card rolled up into a tube and tied around with a thread. One end of the tube being sealed or plugged with two pellets of blotting paper.

Suspend this miniature cartridge from the cork by means of a piece of thread attached by a tin tack. The open end of the cartridge must be uppermost, and when all is ready you cork the bottle tightly, having allowed enough thread to swing the cartridge clear of the water.

To explode the cartridge and discharge your novel cannon you lay the bottle horizontally upon two pencils on the table. They will act as your gun carriage.

Pretty soon the water will penetrate the blotting paper plugs and reach the tartaric acid. Effervescence will at once take place, and the carbonic acid gas thus generated will throw the cork from the bottle with a loud report, the cartridge trailing after it like a rocket.

And you will have a still further imitation of field artillery in the recoil of the bottle, which will roll back several inches. Make this little experiment. It is both pretty and harmless.—Philadelphia Times.

Easily Decided.

"Mother," said Johnnie after deep thought, "suppose I should knock this vase off the table and catch it. Then I wouldn't catch it, would I?"

"N-o, no, I suppose not," his mother slowly assented.

"But," continued Johnnie, still toying with the vase, "if I should knock it off and not catch it, then I would catch it, wouldn't I?"

"Yes, you would," his mother grimly returned, this time with quick decision.

A Mistake.

A bright little 4-year-old boy was lying in the grass and looking into the sky when he spied the moon. He was astonished to see it in the daytime. Suddenly jumping up, he rushed into the house and cried, "Oh, mamma, God forgot to take his moon in last night."—Exchange.

A Little Boy's Vain Regret. He was six years old, just six that day. And I saw he had something important to say as he held in his hand a broken toy.

He looked in my face for an instant, and then he said, with a sigh and a downcast eye, "If I could live my life over again, I think I could be a better boy."

WHAT A LETTER DID.

How a Southern Congressman Innocently Made a Lifelong Enemy.

"Speaking of stenographers," said a gentleman well known in Washington, who for a number of years represented a Louisiana district in congress, "I once had a secretary, an unusually careful and competent fellow, too, whose slight slip in a typewritten letter to a constituent of mine cost me that gentleman's friendship, a friendship valued much more highly than I can express."

"This is the way it came about: At a time when I was well nigh submerged with committee duties I received a letter from the head of one of the most influential and widely respected families of the state. His residence had just burned down, he wrote me, the loss coming at a moment when it affected his financial matters to no inconsiderable extent. Could he not presume upon our many years of friendship to the extent of asking a loan of $250, until the insurance companies should settle his claim? I was deeply moved to learn of his misfortune, and immediately dictated, along with a number of other letters, the following lines to him:

"My Dear Sir—I am greatly pained to hear of the calamity which has come upon you. I regret I have not $250 in available funds at present; will send check in a day or two."

"Promptly enough the check went, but with equal promptness it was returned to me, with no word of explanation. I own I was surprised, but concluded he must have received his insurance money, and the circumstance was gradually forgotten. But it was very forcibly recalled to my mind when next I paid a visit to my home, for he did not call upon me, as he had always been wont to do. On the contrary, he shunned a meeting with me.

"Imagine my dismay upon finding that the letter I had sent him, in the most kindly spirit possible, contained these words: 'I regret I have got $250 in available funds; will send check in a day or two.' In vain I explained, apologized, implored. To his dying day he never forgave what he termed my studied and unwarranted affront.

"That is what the touch of a finger upon a wrong key did for me, and for years I have never mailed a letter, long or short, without first subjecting it to the most rigid scrutiny. I tell you, sir, it pays to be watchful in this respect."—Washington Star.

IS AN OCTUGENARIAN.

Mrs. Stanton's Birthday Celebrated by Many Loving Friends.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—A grand celebration was held last night at the Metropolitan Opera House in honor of the 80th birthday of Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, the pioneer of woman's rights movement.

ELIZABETH CADY STANTON.

The celebration was conducted under the auspices of the National Council of Women of the United States—a council embracing 90 organizations, and including a membership of 700,000 women. The boxes were gorgeously decorated with flowers.

Mrs. Stanton's speech was read by Miss Helen Potter. Among other things, she said: "I would say to one and all that in demanding justice and equality for others, I have found new liberty myself. I am aware that these demonstrations are not so many tributes to me as an individual as the great idea present—the enfranchisement of women."

Addresses were also delivered by several other women prominent in woman's rights work.

NEGLECTED HIS STUDIES.

Captain Brewer Flamed on "Athletic Probation" by Harvard's Faculty.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 13.—A great commotion was created at Harvard yesterday by the announcement that the faculty had requested Captain Brewer of the "Varsity" football eleven to refrain from taking part in any football contest during the remainder of the season. In other words, the faculty has placed him on what is termed "athletic probation" for neglecting his studies.

CAPTAIN ARTHUR H. BREWER OF HARVARD.

This is the first time in the history of Harvard that such action has been taken by the faculty. There have been instances, however, where other athletes would have been treated this way had they not been captains of teams. The students generally expressed great indignation, and characterized the action of the faculty as another blow to football at Harvard.

Hot Talk.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—C. O. Iselin will ask the New York Yacht club to take action on the charges that Lord Dunraven makes that the ballast of the Defender was tampered with at Erie basin in order to secure advantages in time allowance. "Lord Dunraven may rest assured," said Mr. Iselin last night, "that his outrageous accusations will be fully investigated. I am not accustomed to being placed in the light of a thief, which is the inference of Lord Dunraven's words. Either he is telling an untruth in this matter or I am, and I shall demand of the New York Yacht club which of us it is."

Morse Triumpha.

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—The jury in the libel suit brought by Mrs. Helen M. Gougar against Congressman Morse brought in a verdict in favor of the latter. Action was brought against Mr. Morse two years ago for $25,000 damages, which Mrs. Gougar claims she sustained because of language used by Mr. Morse during a political controversy. The case was tried last year and was won by Mr. Morse. A new trial was ordered and the case was brought up again with the same result.

A Wife Beater's Mishap.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Nov. 13.—Frank W. Card of Hawkville was beating his wife yesterday, when their 11-year-old boy Herbert picked up a little 22-caliber pistol and threatened to shoot his father. The latter left his wife and seized the pistol, which exploded, the bullet entering his eye and lodging near the brain. Card will lose his eye, and his condition is dangerous.

Autopsy Deemed Necessary.

NORTH SCITUATE, R. I., Nov. 13.—The medical examiner of this town has decided to hold an autopsy on the body of John N. Roessler, an aged farmer of this place, who was found dead in bed with a bullet hole in his head. It was thought to be a case of suicide, but the authorities have received information which leads them to make an investigation.

For Police to Unravel.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 11.—The police of this city and Providence are investigating the circumstances attending the recent disappearance of a young Italian named Antonio Filippone, as a companion named Balastro, who was the last person seen with Filippone previous to his disappearance about a month ago, has also disappeared.

"Old Roman" May Recover.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 11.—Allan W. Thurman says of ex-Senator Thurman's sickness: "Father is much better. It is perfectly astonishing to see his improvement. His vigorous constitution gives us all cause to feel very hopeful." Mr. Thurman will be 83 years old next Wednesday.

MASSACRES GO ON

High Time For Active Operations Against the Turks.

The Slaughter at Erzerum as Described by a European Eye-Witness—End of the Sultan's Reign Near at Hand.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—A dispatch to The Standard from Constantinople says that every day brings news of fresh massacres. It is quite clear, if the powers waste the additional time in negotiations, the need for the negotiations will be passed.

The Standard's Constantinople correspondent also says that if the rumor should be confirmed that French and American missionaries have been injured in any of these outrages, it is believed that these powers will no longer confine themselves to protest. The American fleet, the correspondent thinks, is only too anxious to commence active operations.

Continuing, the correspondent says that recent details received from Erzerum indicate that the massacre there is worse than at first reported. The outrages were organized and planned days beforehand, and the pillage was on a colossal scale. The Armenians who escaped were literally naked.

Reports continue to arrive of troubles at Malidieh, Arabkir, Kharpout and Moush. It is reported that innocent persons are being slain with the sword, and their buildings destroyed by fire in all these towns.

A dispatch to The Daily News from Constantinople says that the European eye-witness present at the Erzerum massacre confirms the statement made regarding the Prearranged Nature of the Outrages.

He asserts that a bugle was sounded before the soldiers commenced their murderous work throughout the city. At first the Turkish troops refrained from injuring women and children, but these bounds were soon passed, and on the 30th of last month the disorders lasted fully six hours. Four hundred refugees were sheltered at the governor's house and fully 800 Armenians concealed themselves in the homes of the Europeans. Two hundred and four horribly mutilated corpses have been collected in the Armenian quarter, and the plundering went on as a wholesale rate, according to the account of this witness, who adds:

I heard of acts of the basest treachery. The next day passed quietly, but on the following day the massacre was resumed. Thirty-six lives were collected, and nearly all had bullet, sword and bayonet wounds. I saw the bodies of several women who died in defense of their honor. Some of the bodies had been skinned, other bodies had been partly burned through the use of petroleum. Many women are missing, and it is supposed that they were carried off by the Turks.

The Constantinople correspondent of The Times says: Official reports blaming Armenians for the disorders at Diarbekir are groundless, and although the actions of the Armenians elsewhere have not always been judicious, the only region in which it can be truly said that the Armenians have risen against the authorities is in the Zeitoun and Marash country.

The Perplexed Sultan.

The sultan is conscious of the weakness of the present cabinet, and he is trying to coax some of the members of his former cabinet to return, but they have so far rejected his overtures, and refused to set their foot within the doors of the palace.

Lord Salisbury's speech last Saturday at the lord mayor's dinner has thrown the sultan and the members of his court into a state of panic. Abdul Hamid entertains the greatest fears of a declaration of war by the powers extending their jurisdiction over a portion of the Turkish empire by the calling of a general European conference. It is generally agreed, however, that the end is not far distant.

Wheelmen Elect Officers.

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—A lively meeting of the Massachusetts division of the League of American Wheelmen was held last night, at which officers were elected. The opponents of the men who have been in control of the division for some time suffered a severe defeat. The following is the result of the election: Chief consul, Sterling Elliott; vice consul, D. E. Miller; secretary-treasurer, Alonzo D. Peck, Jr. The election of Peck was hotly contested, and was really the termination of the differences between the nominating committee and the Consolidated cycling clubs. The latter were badly beaten.

Considering Politics.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 14.—At the session of the National Grange last evening a letter was read from Susan B. Anthony, urging the convention to speak upon woman suffrage with no uncertain voice. The legislative committee reported progress and a probable conference with similar committees of other bodies for the purpose of considering the tariff and the money question. The national master announced his committees for the convention, and at the close of the first day the work for the week was planned and laid out.

Long and Honorable Career Ended.

BOLTON, Mass., Nov. 14.—Rev. Thomas Treadwell Stone, D.D., the oldest graduate of Bowdoin college, and one of the oldest ministers in the country, is dead. Dr. Stone was born in Maine in 1800, and graduated from Bowdoin at the age of 20 years. In spite of his age, he had enjoyed good health, and last year took part in the anniversary exercises of Bowdoin college.

Admiral Carpenter Coming Home.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Because of the serious sickness of his wife at her home in this country, Rear Admiral C. C. Carpenter has at his own request been detached from the command of the Asiatic station, and Commodore F. V. McNair has been ordered to that duty. Admiral Carpenter retires from active service next February.

President Torrey Resigns.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 14.—At yesterday's business meeting of the Christian Workers' managing board Rev. R. A. Torrey of Chicago resigned the position of president, and Rev. R. H. Canwell of Philadelphia was elected to succeed. Mr. Torrey gives press of business as his reason for resigning.

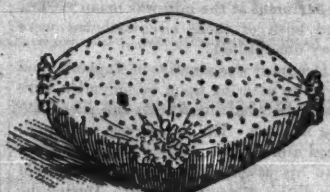

Bradley Heard From.

HAVENHILL, Mass., Nov. 14.—A letter was received yesterday from John F. Bradley, who mysteriously disappeared from this city in September last, leaving a wife and children behind. The letter was dated Austin, and stated that the writer intended to go into business there.

ROSETTED SOFA PILLOWS.

New Corner Decorations That Freshen the Autumn Cushion.

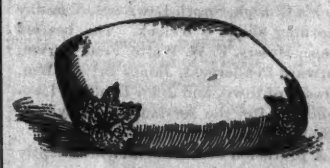

Frills and farbels have decorated sofa pillows for several seasons now, and ingenuity has been taxed to find some novelty. Nothing more striking than the corner fluff or puffs has as yet been evolved. A new idea this autumn is a big rosette of narrow ribbon spread out upon each corner. The color is a matter of individual taste, and may match or harmoniously contrast with the shade of the cushion cover.

Another new corner decoration is a rosette of lace, five or six inches wide, sewed down very close, and having no fullness at its edge. When pressed flat, it looks like heavy embroidery, if the lace is of firm quality or of gilt. Heavy silk lace is handsome. A big button covered with the material of the cushion ion cover, and set in the center of the rosette, gives a good finish. Full rosettes of lace are used also, a dainty decoration for delicate fabrics, covering pillows of moderate size. The corner of the cushion is always folded in when a rosette is placed upon it.

Has Outgrown the Tatting Period.

The new woman is better educated than the old and along more practical lines. Instead of doing endless tatting and crochet work she has turned her attention to hygienic cookery, healthful dress, outdoor sports, remunerative employments and affairs of church and state. She is braver than the woman of old, for she will give the helping hand to a repentant fallen sister and repulse an unrepentant fallen man. She prefers to be a self supporting entity rather than a clinging nonentity. She accepts marriage not as a means of support, as occasionally did her predecessor, but in order to complete the happiness and development of herself and the one she loves best. When she manages a bank, or preaches the gospel, or writes books, or practices medicine or law, she is by just so much better prepared than an untrained woman to assume the duties of wife and mother.—Catharine Waugh McCulloch.

The English Bun.

The English bun, the misleading name given to a style of hairdressing, that, according to a dispatch, "is just now invading New York, is a back number in Chicago. It has been in vogue here among the votaries of feminine fashion for more than six months. The bun consists of a soft coil pulled in the center and worn close to the base of the cerebellum. The decree of banishment against the bun has been pronounced. It may go to New York, St. Louis or Philadelphia, but it is not sufficiently fashionable to remain in Chicago. The new fashion will be a revival of the Marie Antoinette style of dressing the hair, with modern elaborations in the way of a profusion of bangs, bean catchers and finger curls. Puff combs for the sides of the head will be necessary concomitants of the new style.—Chicago Times-Herald.

The Princess of Wales.

The Princess of Wales is always loath to adopt any exaggerated fashion. Simple bonnets, neither too high nor too broad, are those she prefers. Many buttoned gloves she invariably discards for those with but three or four buttons. At the theater she has lately appeared in something approaching demitoe, with long sleeves to her wrists and a decollete the least pronounced possible. At the opera she is of course much smarter, although she seldom adopts the grande toilette of dames of less high degree. As to jewels, she wears not too many diamonds, but just diamonds enough, and is rarely without her long necklace of pearls. If the princess has a weakness, it is for old lace. Her collection of lace is indeed a beautiful one, and one of great value.

Named For Mrs. Bradwell.

A public school in Chicago has been named after Mrs. Myra Bradwell. Mrs. Bradwell was for 25 years the editor of the Chicago Legal News and asked for admission to the bar long before the right to practice had been generally granted to women. When her request was denied, she carried on a contest through the Illinois courts and to the supreme court of the United States. The Illinois legislature finally passed a bill permitting women to apply for admission to the bar, but Mrs. Bradwell did not take advantage of the privilege. Her daughter became a member of the bar and married a lawyer.

Mrs. Tillinghast's Work.

Some of the handsomest pieces of interior decoration in this country are the work of Mrs. Mary Tillinghast. She designed and made one of the memorial windows in Grace church; she decorated the ballroom in Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish's house, and she worked a large tapestry which is one of the most admired of the art treasures in Cornelius Vanderbilt's New York mansion. It is after a cartoon by Raphael and contains 50 large figures. Mrs. Tillinghast's work has also gained recognition in Europe, and the chateau of the Baronne De Ternoosne, in France, has ceilings from her brush.—New York Letter.

It is understood that a warrant concerning (fowl) foul proceedings has been issued from the local police court, but not yet served. Even the satires of curious and too familiar birds are sometimes apparently sufficient to estrange kindly feelings and raise a barrier between neighbors.

Ira Low of Bradford, Vt., a stock and poultry raiser of considerable note, has been making a brief visit at the home of J. G. Brown, this week. A consignment of chickens and turkeys will be sent Mr. Brown early next week, to be sold to the Thanksgiving trade at the prevailing prices.

The dance which had been announced by the class of '90, Johnson High School, for this evening at Stevens Hall, has been deferred until Friday evening, the 22d. inst. The Columbia Orchestra, which was unable to come on the date first decided upon, has been engaged for the time now mentioned.

The draymen are happy. Mr. D. W. Sutcliffe is to move into Henry Keniston's new house on Main Street, and H. Pulsifer is to occupy the other tenement in the same house. Thomas Milner is to occupy the tenement vacated by Mr. Pulsifer and Allen Brooks, the one formerly occupied by Mr. Milner.

The Boston & Maine Railroad gives notice of a citizens' excursion to Boston for Saturday, Nov. 16. Round trip tickets, good only on this date, will be on sale at both the North Andover Depot and Machine Shop station for the low price of $1.00. This trip is via the Eastern Division.

Among officers chosen at a meeting held in Lawrence Friday, from people interested in establishing a "home" for aged women, are the following from town: Vice-president, N. P. Frye; trustee, M. T. Stevens; board of advice and consultation, Mrs. H. N. Stevens, Mrs. N. P. Frye, Mrs. E. A. Baldwin.

Owing to the sudden death of its vice-president, the North Andover Glee Club had no rehearsal Monday night. Messrs. T. J. Murphy, F. S. Smith, Harry Lynch, and Edward Butterworth were appointed a committee to draft resolutions of respect and esteem, to be presented to the family of Austin J. Hoban, the deceased member.

At the home of George Meserve Monday evening, R. A. Redman was presented with a pretty banquet lamp by members of the double male quartette, of which he has been the patient and thorough instructor. The gift was presented by George Meserve and received by Mr. Redman with a few thankful words, after which a collation was served.

Wednesday evening the Epworth League held a business meeting and planned to raise its subscription in full for the organ fund. During the second week in December they intend giving in the Methodist Church a reception, five o'clock tea and concert, the latter to equal in merit anything that they have yet called public attention to.

In addition to the Chadwick land, Geo. A. Rogers has secured the ten acres of adjoining land of Abbott Prescott, for farming purposes. Mr. Rogers will devote his time principally to experimental and comparative tests in the various departments of agriculture, which among other things will be applied to different grades of stock, butter making, milk, and in a degree, probably to fowl raising. The results will, from time to time appear in the New England Farmer.

Obituary.

AUSTIN J. HOBAN.

In the passing from life of Austin Hoban about 11 o'clock Saturday night, grief entered a home in Stevens Village, and the place of the overseer of the spinning department at the mill was made vacant, and both of these circumstances were very unexpected.

Deceased was a native of England, and prior to entering upon employment here about two and a half years ago, was working in Ware. His experience well qualified him for the position which he held, and his attention to the requirements of his duties was quite regular. During the past week, however, owing to illness, his attendance at work has not been as regular as usual, and although the early hours of Saturday evening were spent at his home in a social way with friends, after retiring he awoke his wife to assist him in dressing, and while sitting on the side of the bed, in the act of donning some part of his apparel, he fell back and suddenly expired, before help could be summoned. His age was about 37 years, and the near relatives surviving are his father, mother, widow and sister.

Funeral services were held at St. Patrick's Church, South Lawrence, Tuesday morning about 8 o'clock. The bearers were, Messrs. F. W. Waite, Fred Marvid, Edward Pendergast, James Driver, Wm. Brodie of town, and John Lynch of Lawrence. After the service the body was taken to Ware for burial.

A profusion of floral emblems silently expressed the love of the family and friends and the esteem and respect of his associates in labor.

MRS. MARY ANN BURKE.

At the home on Milk Street, Mary Ann Burke, wife of Michael Burke, died Monday morning about 9 o'clock, aged 75 years. Crippled with rheumatism, she had been unable to attend to the home duties for a long time. She was born in Ireland, but her residence here extends through a period of over forty years. Previous to living on Milk Street, their home was on the Col. Adams place, now the Charlotte Home. One sister, Margaret McGilly of Holliston, survives her.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at St. Patrick's Church, South Lawrence, Rev. McManus officiating. The body was buried in the St. Michael's cemetery on the old railroad. The bearers were Eugene Murphy, John Burke, William Toohy and Thomas Curtin.

St. Paul's Parish Notes.

BOYS' CLUB.

Wednesday evening the Young Men's Social Club of St. Paul's Church elected the following officers: President, Rev. E. S. Thomas; vice-president, George Meserve; secretary, Frank Mackie; treasurer, Charles Drew. Portion of the constitution was amended, and as a literary feature part of "Tom Brown's School-days" was read.

MAIDS OF HONOR.

Owing to the neglect of three-fourths of the members of the Maids of Honor to attend the meeting, the election of officers has been deferred. A play will be given in connection with the Christmas tree, Christmas eve, in Odd Fellows Hall. It is an operetta, called "Santa Claus at Home." R. A. Redman, choirmaster, will have charge of the music and train the members for their parts. The society rejoices in the assistance of Mr. Eastwood who helped them so happily last year. Some fifteen of the younger members of the Boy's Club will also assist. The first rehearsal will be Wednesday at 4 o'clock p.m., and it is hoped that every one connected with the play will be able to be present then.

CHOIR.

The choir has commenced the rehearsal of Christmas music. After Christmas a series of choral services are being arranged, to take the place of the regular evening service.

Attend the Birthday Party.

A special committee of the Ladies' Charitable Union announce a birthday party at the Union rooms Wednesday evening. Fancy purses of colored silk and ribbons have been fashioned by deft fingers and distributed among kindly disposed people. Others will be furnished at the door, to those desiring to obtain them.

The following original verse accompanies each little purse and explains in a graceful way what to do after receiving it:

We ask a small favor, pray don't think us bold; Drop herein a penny for every year old. If the years of your age you care not to tell, A dollar or more will answer as well. If another engagement should keep you away, The bag with the pennies our grief will allay.

All our nice old people, ninety years of age and over, are particularly invited to be present and may be assured of a cordial welcome. People of less years are also desired to attend and will be welcomed in proportion to their ages. It is hoped that the aggregation of years will reach many thousands. Let all who can, plan to go, enjoy the evening's pleasures and aid in the worthy object.

ESSEX ST., LAWRENCE.

A Credit to Lawrence.

Prof. W. T. Sedgwick, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, says in a recent issue of the Boston Transcript:

"There is one possession of Lawrence which has conferred upon it very great distinction, both at home and abroad. I refer to the famous sanitary research laboratories of the State Board of Health of Massachusetts, maintained at Lawrence since 1887, and known as 'The Lawrence Experiment Station of the State Board of Health.' The orators who dwell upon the fame of Lawrence during its first half century might have said, and truly, that the name of Lawrence is familiar all over the civilized world wherever public health and municipal sanitation are known and valued; and this, not because of her phenomenal growth or her mighty water power, but because in these plain buildings on the river bank, the State Board of Health of Massachusetts, with the aid of Mr. Mills, has made most important investigations of the vexed problems of water supply, sewerage and epidemics, such as have been attempted nowhere else in the world."

Harry W. Clark of this town, who has been connected with this work since 1887, is now a chemist in charge of this station and its laboratories.

Top Coats.

The cry from young trade is always for something new, and the clothing merchant who shows the latest creations in fabrics, cut, trimmed and made in the latest fashion, is sure to get the cream of the young trade. The noblest overgarment this season is the covert cloth top coat, cut short and box back. Gentlemen who are interested in such garments should read Hicknell Bros. announcement and by all means see those beautiful "top coats."

We are still doing business at the Old Stand.
